Attacks by mobs on Christians: Concerned governments and the UN must intervene - KCBC

Kochi: Christians are increasingly the target of riots and mob attacks, including in Pakistan and India. It is regrettable that the majority population in Pakistan is attacking the minority Christian community on the basis of unfounded accusations. According to reports, lynching may have been the goal of some extremist religious organisations who spread untrue accusations.

It is obvious that terrorist movements feed sectarianism and communal polarisation in any nation. Through their hateful campaigns, they sow riots that force millions of people to flee because they feel unsafe. The number of people being tortured, killed, and losing everything is increasing daily in different countries.

In the modern world, the majority of people experience attacks and persecution solely because they identify as Christians. Governments in the nations where the attacks take place, as well as other nations around the world and the UN, must be prepared to act decisively in this situation.
